Vote for Morrow the Only Way

(FROM THE LOUISVILLE HERALD.)

If A. O. Stanley is the one best exhibit of the Kentucky Democracy, then, indeed, are we sorry for a party fallen so sadly upon evil days.

If his hands are the worthiest within its membership to which to entrust the government of the Commonwealth, then are conditions worse even than we had supposed.

Stanley has been before the public a long time. His opportunities to win the respect and the confidence of the community have been many.

He might have justified the highest expectations—and he chose to disappoint them.

He might have become an agency of good—and he was content to seek the spotlight and play to the gallery.

He might have been for standards clean and pure—and he was willing to seek office with the aid of those whose vicious practices he had denounced and whose workings he had repudiated.

The bosses and the rings are his faithful backers and he their loyal friend.

He takes orders from those whom he has vilified.

He takes his cue from agencies he dares not avow.

He forms his conduct along lines to suit them.

He plays their game.

The election of Stanley would be the triumph of misgovernment.

The election of Stanley would be the triumph of the machine.

The election of Stanley would give the "Invisible Government" a certificate of approval and a license to do it worst.

There is only one way to avert the calamity.

There is only one way to bring nearer and make possible the day of decency and cleanliness in politics; the day of honest dealing; the day when responsibility can be centered and brought home; the day of tuning up our political life, of giving constructive policies a chance.

That way is to vote for Edwin P. Morrow.

There is no other way.

Morrow fights for the forces of truth and right; for betterment; for headway; for the removal from among us of the reproach of a machine sunk in rottenness and reeking with disgrace.

FIRST NUMBER EXCELLENT

Lycium Opening Number Very Fine—
Grand Opera Artists Make a Hit
In This City—Large Audience Greets Them.

Those patrons of the Maysville High School Lycium Course who journeyed to the auditorium of the High School building Friday night to listen to the opening number of the 1915-1916 Lycium Course, were well repaid for their trouble, as the Grand Opera Artists, who were the performers of the evening, rendered a musical program which many who heard it said was the best ever given on the Lycium platform in this city.

Mme. Sapin, the famous contralto of the Boston Opera Company, delighted the large audience with several selections, which received much applause. Mme. Sapin was not reluctant in answering encores and several times was called back four times.

Mr. Rafael Diaz, the tenor, pleased all with his splendid voice and was also encoored several times.

Miss Beatrice Holbrook, the pianist, rendered several beautiful numbers, which were well received by the audience.

Mr. Louis Besserer, the violinist, was called back to render encores more than once.

Taken as a whole, the first number of the course was as good, if not better, than any opening number of the course in the past years. The next number of the course will be rendered on the evening of Thursday, November 11, Totten & Company, magicians, being the attraction.

DEMOCRATIC APPRECIATION

Editor Public Ledger:

You will pardon me for asking you to give space to the following comments I am about to make, but I can not help asking my Democratic brothers a few questions. Why do you not show more appreciation to the men who worked so hard and faithfully for the cause of Democracy in dear old Mason county? Witness the following examples:

In the primary election held last August we had a gentleman—Matt J. Hennessey—as a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney. He was asking for re-election and always stood ready to enter the arena of the Democratic party to fight its battles against the common enemy—the Republicans. "Matt" was an able man, a good attorney, and while I admit he may have made mistakes at times, I am quite sure they were "errors of the head and not of the heart." Yet, when he stood for the nomination he was knifed unmercifully by many of those whom he believed to be his friends.

Why was this, I ask? Didn't Hennessey deserve re-nomination? I think he did on account of his past party affiliations and he should have been given the nomination. This is another case of Democratic lack of appreciation.

Here is another case. When Stanley was a candidate for Senator he was given hearty support but Beckham defeated him and in the Senatorial election the Democrats of Mason county allowed the county to go for Willson, a Republican, by a small majority, cutting down a normal Democratic majority of 700 to 800 to a victory for a Republican. Why was this? I can tell you. The Democrats who pulled off the barbecue in this county last Saturday stayed away from the polls and did not vote. Many of them did not even register. This is some more Democratic appreciation, I don't think.

Then again, when the primary was on for Governor, everything was done for Stanley in Mason county that was possible, although McDermott was the logical candidate, and stood head and shoulders above any other Democratic candidate, and should have had the support of every loyal Democrat in Mason county.

Again I ask, why did these same Democrats throw down Hennessey and McDermott, many of whom were under personal obligations to these gentlemen? I answer, they were afraid to show their colors. There is no other reason.

Now, these self-styled, loyal Democrats are moving heaven and earth to get out the vote for Stanley, while they knifed Beckham, McDermott and Hennessey. Do they think these gentlemen have no friends and that the day of retribution is near at hand?

I now call upon the friends of these noble, great and loyal Democrats to remember this lack of appreciation and give them a rebuke that will be a lesson for them to remember. Now is the time and at the ballot box is the place.

Are you with me, friends of Beckham, McDermott and Hennessey? Show your colors.

A DEMOCRAT.

How To Avoid The Motor Car That Bags At the Knees

The automobile is curiously like the human body—an assembling of independent parts.

The man-machine is made up of muscle and bone, nerve and blood, water and fat, waste matter and brains.

As far as locomotion is concerned, neither machine is any stronger than its weakest link.

Mark the badly co-ordinated man. He looks O. K., but when there are stairs to climb or pace to be forced, he puffs and pants, and one concludes that his ruddy color came from a recent facial massage; that his bellows need mending, that his muscles aren't; that his "strength" is mere scenery and that his sound appearance is mostly tailor made.

Haven't you seen automobiles just like that, look "pretty" but won't take you from here to there and back?

The "Wonder Car" that the Square Deal Man sells won't 'bag at the knees,' and he can prove by the testimony of delighted owners that it will take you There and Back, not once, but many times, and that it is the lowest "After Cost" car on the market today. If you are a prospective car owner, 'phone us and we will be glad to take you for a trial spin in the Maxwell "25."

REPUBLICANS OF KENTUCKY:
Your solemn duty to yourselves, to your families and to your State, is to go to the polls November 2, and vote for Ed. Morrow and the Republican ticket. We are going to redeem Kentucky.

WHAT SHALL WE DO TO BE SAVED?

September 30, 1915, the interest bearing debt of the State was $3,430,229.51, on which the yearly interest would be $171,500.00.

The present Democratic administration in Kentucky has collected from the people in taxes in three years and eight months $3,473,045.81 more than the Republicans collected during a like period. They have not only spent all this money, but have increased the State debt nearly three million dollars and it is still growing at the rate of more than $100,000 a month. This Democratic administration has created more than 200 new offices, both county and State, and has increased the salary roll at Frankfort $177,254.67 in three years.

The Democratic machine has answered the people's demand for economy and reform by nominating on their State ticket five members of the administration that is responsible for the present deplorable condition.

If you want a change, vote the straight Republican ticket and defeat the rotators at Frankfort.

DID HAMLETT USE SCHOOL MONEY TO BUY DRINKS?

The hotel records at Paducah show that Hamlett only $2 for his room at Paducah on May 14 and the receipt for $13.80. What items make up the remaining $11.80? He says he ate his supper on May 14; he left Paducah the night of the 15th; he could have eaten only three meals. Did he pay $11.80 for three meals? Will Mr. Hamlett tell us what he paid the $11.80 for? We know but want to give him a chance to tell it.

In order to help him, we will ask him plainly if he used the money provided by the taxpayers for the education of their children to buy drinks for himself and friends by having the checks sent to the cafe and charged to his hotel bill in an effort to defeat his opponent, Mr. C. W. Milliken for presidency of the T. P. A?

A CANDIDATE FOR COUNCIL.

One of our local papers says one of the Councilmen standing for re-election has already received $1,035 for supplies furnished the city, and is now running for the sole purpose of defeating a colleague.

Is that not putting it pretty strong? Running just to defeat a colleague? What about the $1,035? It is hard to separate from the picking so easy.

We repeat, that our City Council should be composed of men who are above the salary question and the "pickings" they receive from being members of that body.

Commission form of government, while not a "cure-all" for all the ills of civic government, is to a great degree a regulator that gives the people some say, at least, in the management of their affairs.

We have had two advancements in city taxes of 15 cents each, in the last two years, to cover the deficit caused by the loss of the saloon license. We still have the saloon; and on the same theory next year we will have another increase of 15 cents to cover a deficit that does not exist on account of the loss of the saloon license.

Will some of the present Council tell a waiting people what deficit they have been filling up with this additional increase in the city taxes?

Come, gentlemen, don't all speak up at once.

When Mr. Stanley was making a tour of the mountain counties last week he refused to ride in a carriage that met his train, but jumped on a mule. Later in the day when making his speech at the same place he ridiculed Mr. Morrow for not being able to gracefully mount a mule. The dispatch said that "the remark caused great applause." Who are you in favor of for Governor, Mr. Voter, an expert mule rider or a legislator?

Ed. Morrow is the logical candidate for Governor. He is not a demagogue, but a gentleman of the highest type. His moral character is above reproach. Vote for him and you will be honored.

Last winter East Second street was a sea of mud during the entire tobacco season. Are we to have a repetition of this condition during the coming season, Mr. City Councilmen? We hope not.

The cost of living is higher today than it was four years ago. The Democrats promised a reduction, if they were elected. Have you gotten it, Mr. Voter?

"Turn the rotators out of office" should be the slogan of every voter in Mason county. Vote the "Log Cabin" straight, and you will accomplish this.

What kind of a street are we going to have in the East End, Mr. City Councilmen? It's time something was doing before the snow falls.

A fond parent wants to know what is the best present for a high school graduate. Our suggestion is a job.

The question of who is running for Councilman from your Ward is settled. It's who's going to be elected?

Mr. Parent, remember the school book graft. Vote the Republican ticket, and get cheaper school books.

How about that Christmas "Buy-At-Home Club"? Are you with The Ledger in the movement?

An "X" under the "Log Cabin" this year means a vote for better government and purer politics.

Vote the "Log Cabin" straight this year. Good government will be your reward, Mr. Voter.

For a clean, honest administration of State affairs, vote the Republican ticket straight.

Put your "X" under the Log Cabin this year and help to cut down the State's debt.

Let everybody boost for Maysville and we will have a better and bigger town.

There are none so foolish as those who are too stubborn to be wise.

We want no rotators in office.

Making or Breaking a Town

It is easy enough to kill off a town, but how are we to rejuvenate a community that has been literally choked to death by the very people who should be its best friends and protectors—its own people?

This community is by no means dead, but it has had some solar plexus blows from people who should have been pushing instead of shoving.

It has been slowly choked and strangled by those who have injured themselves by their acts quite as much as they have injured the community.

It has been done by the inveterate patronizer of the mail order man and the big city merchant.

Let us suppose two pictures, and the story will have been told so plainly and so graphically as to be readily understood by any persons of any degree of intelligence whatever.

PICTURE ONE.

This is a thriving country town community.

It has modern improvements, many stores well stocked with goods that are sold at close margins of profit, is clean, sanitary and attractive in many ways.

Business is good, money is plentiful and in constant circulation, society is active, and life is more than worth living.

Farmers find a ready market for their products, and those that are not consumed locally are purchased by shippers at the highest market prices.

The town has a good name abroad, new people are constantly moving in, real estate is on the move, farm values are high and the demand for them is heavy.

It is a successful town, but it is so ONLY BECAUSE THE PEOPLE OF THE COMMUNITY TRADED WITH THEIR HOME MERCHANTS AND ARE LOYAL TO HOME INSTITUTIONS AND HOME PEOPLE.

The community produces more than it consumes, and since the people trade at home the profits and surplus are naturally kept at home, with the result that the financial condition of the community becomes better day by day.

This is what LOYALTY TO HOME INSTITUTIONS does for you and yours.

PICTURE TWO.

This is known as a mail order town and community, and it looks it.

There was a time when this was a prosperous community of people, with many stores well stocked and business generally on the boom.

Then the mail order man came along with his handsome catalogue

REPUBLICAN FIGURES CORRECT

State Treasurer Rhea Has Been Trying To Show That Handbook's Comparison of Administrations On Interest Was Wrong

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE SHOW CLAIM IS RIGHT.

Frankfort, Ky., October 28.—Representatives of the Republican State Campaign Committee who have been checking over the figures used in the Republican handbook, today forwarded to the committee the following statement in reply to the charges made by State Treasurer Thomas S. Rhea, that the figures stated in the handbook were misleading.

The statement.

"The State Treasurer, in a labored article about a column long, attempts to call in question the correctness of the figures used in the Republican handbook regarding the relative amount of interest collected on the State deposits under Governor Wilson's administration for the three fiscal years ending June 30, 1909, 1910 and 1911, and that under Governor McCreary for the three fiscal years ending June 30, 1912, 1913 and 1914. This was a comparison of like periods under the two administrations. The handbook states positively that in three years the Democrats collected $2,000 less in interest on deposits while their monthly balances averaged $300,000 more than those under the Republican administration. We compared monthly balances under a Republican administration with the monthly balances under a Democratic administration, and any attempt to draw a distinction between the monthly and daily balances is not, therefore, pertinent because we are comparing like things in two administrations.

"For their failure to collect a proper amount of interest on deposits under a former Democratic administration, the excuse was given that because of the panic, a bank in Frankfort was exonerated from paying interest on any sum above $100,000 on deposit in that bank.

"It is true now that in order to relieve the banks of the payment of the amount of interest required under the statutes they permitted the banks to take the deposits daily and defer the calculation of the interest until the banks have collected the items which compose the deposit. In neither instance is the law carried out.

"The statement that monthly balances are not proper because large sums are frequently paid out soon after the beginning of the month, is not pertinent. It is known of all men familiar with the facts that checks given on banks are usually given many days before actual payments are made, and the checks given by the Treasurer for the salary of circuit judges, and other officers away from Frankfort remain unpaid for many days, and in this way the checks drawn and unpaid offset the large payments that are claimed to have been made each month.

"In this way, too, the banks have compensation for paying interest on uncollected items by reason of the fact that they do not pay checks for several days after they are drawn by the Treasurer."

It just does our heart good to see the reports of the great crops with which this year is being blessed throughout the world. Our people from every point of the compass have been passing through a period of depression which in almost any other country would have resulted in a panic, but the American people have just gripped their teeth and forged to the front with redoubled energy and determination. The spirit of "I Will" just seems to have been planted in every breast, with the happy result that prosperity on a par with our record breaking crops will soon be our heritage. It gives us a mighty good feel, and we pass it on to you.

Incidentally, quite a distinction, the late Mr. Galt.

SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Of Mrs. Chappell, of Five Years'

Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

"My dear, N. C.—Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town, says: 'I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishment was more than any one could tell. I tried most every kind of medicine, but none did me any good. I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together. My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it. Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly trouble, such as headache, backache, sideache, sleeplessness, and that everlastingly tired feeling? If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you, just as it has a million other women in the past half century. Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. Marguerite Clark in "Seven Sisters" At the Washington Theater Tuesday, November 2.

"SEVEN SISTERS," the celebrated trans-Atlantic comedy success, adapted for the American stage by Edith Ellis Furniss, and presented for several seasons at the Lyceum Theater in New York by Daniel Frohman, tells the amusing story of the widow of an army officer in a small garrison town in Hungary, who has seven daughters ranging from seven to twenty-two. According to the Hungarian system of marriage, the daughters must be wed in the order of their age, and the younger ones must be kept in the background until the older ones are disposed of. Mici, portrayed by Miss Clark, the fourth in matrimonial eligibility, rebels against this system, and falls in love with an ardent young lieutenant. The duty devolves upon the lieutenant of finding suitors for the three older girls who stand in the way of his marriage to Mici. The three whom he thus leads unsuspectingly to their fates are a jealously-inclined colonel, a philandering lieutenant and a meek young university student. His conspiracies, however, involve all three pairs in trouble, for the young people show symptoms of not clinging to the sweethearts selected for them. Finally the lieutenant's calculations are completely upset by Mici's eleventh hour refusal to marry him. How these sentimental problems are at last solved is humorously unfolded in the photoplay.

As Mici, Marguerite Clark is altogether delightful. Her frankness, her wistfulness, her quaint philosophy and irresistible girliness, make the role completely captivating.

No. The real heroes of today are not the ones of shot and shell. They are the movie stars.

GREAT CROWDS GREET MORROW IN HILL COUNTRY

Speakers On Republican Special Continue To Drive Home Truth About Democratic Mismanagement and Voters Are Prompt In Expressions of Support.

FAIRBANKS' ARGUMENTS CONSTRUCTIVE—FRANKS AGAIN FLAYS STANLEY.

Middlesboro, Ky., October 28.—The Republican campaign special arrived at the Easternmost point of its tour last night after a series of meetings which have greatly raised the confidence of the Republican leaders on the train.

At all of the meetings held yesterday, the evidence accumulated that the Eleventh District has been thoroughly aroused to the necessity of rolling up the biggest Republican majority ever known in these mountain strongholds.

The first meeting was held at Harlan, where the train was met by a band and the party escorted to the Courthouse. An improvised stand was erected in the yard and over a thousand people heard the argument of the speakers.

From Harlan, the train went to Pineville where the meeting was held in the opera house in the early afternoon. A prominent Democrat of Pineville made the statement to a newspaper man that it would have been much better for Stanley, if he had not appeared at Pineville at all. He spoke a night or two previous to the Republican meeting and had a very fair audience, which was, however, much dissatisfied with the presentation of State issues made by Mr. Stanley and were frank to say so today.

Stanley Meeting a Frost. Judge Charles W. Logan, a member of the committee at Pineville, said that Stanley had not had an audience of more than 250 of which, he declared, more than half were women and children. He said that the Democrats had widely advertised the Stanley meeting and that in spite of a brass band, red fire and other stimulants of political zeal, the Stanley rally was undoubtedly the greatest "frost" ever experienced by a political candidate in Bell county.

"Pineville subscribers to the Louisville Courier-Journal were surprised to learn in that paper the other day that Mr. Stanley was greeted by a large and enthusiastic crowd when he visited here the other day," said Judge Logan. "The Stanley meeting was the greatest political frost in the history of the town."

At Barbourville and Middlesboro. From Pineville the train made trips to the neighboring towns of Barbourville and Middlesboro, where two of the most enthusiastic meetings of the entire trip were held.

Over a hundred enthusiastic Pineville people, with their band, accompanied the train to Barbourville which was gallantly decorated with munting. The meeting was held in the courthouse yard, a dozen automobiles being on hand to take the visitors from the depot to the courthouse.

This meeting was a wonderful success. There were, by several carefully checked counts, over 1,500 people present, nearly all of them being voters.

Mr. Fairbanks made a characteristically graceful and winning speech, and the spirit of the crowd prompted Mr. Morrow to make one of his most telling talks. Mr. Morrow has made little attempt at oratory on this trip. The condition of his throat has compelled him to strip his speeches of all but the most pungent and forceful paragraphs, and these he has charged with all his earnestness of purpose and magnetic presentation.

The brilliant young orator has never appeared so convincing to undecided voters, and has seldom placed the State's problems and his program for their solution in so clear and concise a fashion as in these familiar, unadorned talks to the mountain people.

An immense throng accompanied the party back to the station and the demand for an opportunity to shake hands with the next Governor, and possibly the next President, caused a delay of nearly an hour in the departure of the train from Barbourville.

Miners Pleased With Morrow. The delay caused a change in the plans for late afternoon meetings at the mining camps near Middlesboro. Mr. Morrow visited these camps in an automobile, other speakers opening the evening meeting at Middlesboro.

Mr. Morrow met with a most flattering reception among the miners and was given cordial assurances of support. He reached Middlesboro in time to make a closing speech.

derful commercial progress and prosperity of the American people and the important part which the putting into effect of Republican principles of government had effected.

Fairbanks' Speech Constructive. Mr. Fairbanks' speech was constructive in its tone, and he took few opportunities for criticism of the Democratic administration except in the making of contrasts between the essential principles of the two parties, again emphasizing that bad politics, or the thoughtless endorsement of bad political principles was sure to be followed by bad business.

He paid a warm tribute to the ability and the earnestness and the good faith of Mr. Morrow and was heard with the most intense attention. State Chairman E. T. Franks took occasion at this meeting to make a hot reply to the issue raised by Mr. Stanley over the proposed three-cent-a-ton-coal output tax. Stanley had declared that the Republicans charged him with favoring such a law, and had denied it.

Franks Hits At Stanley. "This is the only thing that Stanley has denied," said Mr. Franks, "of all the charges which have been made against him and the Democratic administration. I do not know that Mr. Morrow even made such a charge but I do know that the member of the last House who introduced such a bill has been renominated and Mr. Stanley is endorsing his nomination."

Mr. Morrow, in spite of his hard day's speaking, made a splendid presentation of the Republican side of the State issues and hammered home point after point of the unanswered and unanswerable charges against the State administration, pointing out that five of the present State administration officers are seeking endorsement for their misconduct under the guise of an appeal to uphold the hands of Woodrow Wilson.

In point of interest, response to telling points and earnest enthusiasm, the meeting was regarded as the best yet held.

Eleventh District To Make Good.

As a result of these meetings, and conferences with Eleventh District leaders, the following forecast, indicating a certain majority of at least 18,500, was given out by members of the State Committee on the train last night. In every case reports of local leaders have been checked and discounted. A large number of local men in conference with the committee declared that the Eleventh District majority will run over 21,000. The estimate follows:

AMERICAN MARINE DEAD.

Peking, China, October 29.—Death, that grim leveler of all rank, that still-voiced dispenser of hatreds and war-anger, joined, in the common bond of sympathy and sorrow, all the military representatives of the world's warring powers at the funeral of an American marine. Private William R. McComb, held here recently.

McComb, a member of the United States Marine Corps Guard at the American Legation here, died after a brief illness and was buried in Plot No. 94, Japanese cemetery, while Australian, Japanese, British, French, Russian, German and Italian soldiers bared shoulders at the funeral and gave vent to the common sorrow. What matter if the whole world was at war? Their world—the Peking military world—was in mourning for "Bill" McComb, the American marine and so they wept, silently and unashamed, the stern warriors, as recently and sadly they placed floral tributes on the coffin and formed in columns of squads behind the casket on which the body was borne to its temporary resting place. The funeral ceremonies ended, they returned to their various legations to become enemies once more. But, for one brief moment, all the world had been at peace so far as military Peking knew or cared.

The remains of Private McComb will be disinterred in time and shipped to the United States for burial. A brother, Robert T. McComb, 4424 North Hamilton avenue, Chicago, survives.

STOMACH TROUBLES.

Digestion is largely a mechanical process. When there are stomach troubles there is usually a weakness of the muscles upon which digestion so largely depends. To strengthen these muscles and overcome stomach troubles our druggist, Peacor Drug Company, guarantees Vinol, a reliable non-secret remedy, which contains iron to purify and enrich the blood, the medicinal extracts of fresh cod livers, without oil, and the nourishing properties of beef peptone, all combined in a delicious native wine. If you are suffering from stomach trouble, it will pay you to try it.

Another good way, instead of holing so much, would be to get busy and put the Germans out of Belgium.

MUST BE PROTECTED

This Country Can Manufacture Its Own Dye-stuffs.

Necessary, However, That Capital Be Assured Consideration in the Matter of Competition With Germany.

Shall we manufacture dye-stuffs in quantities to meet our own necessities? The industry can be established in this country, and should be. We have the raw materials, and can command the skilled labor. We have suffered in that line, as in others, as the result of the war. We have been dependent on Germany for our dyes; and our business relations with that country have been dislocated for 13 months. Hence the interest now attaching to that particular subject.

The leading consideration in the premises is protection. Shall protection be afforded? The German industry has not been, and will not be, destroyed by the war. Upon the return of peace, German manufacturers will return to full speed again, and have greatly the advantage in our markets unless our markets are protected for the home industry.

Secretary Redfield favors the protection, and puts the case in this way: "Capital hesitates under existing conditions to embark heavily in an undertaking where there is a strong probability, if not a certainty, that upon the return of normal conditions an incipient half-developed American industry would be expected to go long and relentless under-selling by foreign competitors possessing almost boundless resources, financial and technical."

A similar situation in general existed when we launched our government scheme, and a similar argument was made by the fathers in support of the general policy of protection. At that time we were a small nation of farmers and merchants, almost wholly dependent on the outside world for manufactured products. Why not become a self-supporting nation? Why not do our own manufacturing? Protection, if a policy was adopted, and in no great while we became in many things independent of the outside world and today we hold a place among the leading manufacturing nations.

Protection has done wonders for America. The policy, of course, needs adjustment from time to time, as President McKinley, the foremost protectionist of his day, pointed out at Buffalo in what proved to be his last public utterance. But adjustments can be made without impairing the strength of the policy, or injuring any well established and prosperous American manufacturing plant.

Repeal the Seamen's Law!

As the department of commerce dissects the seamen's law, the crudities and stupidities of that measure become more convincingly conspicuous. Its incidence is restricted to a pitiful number of vessels; its provisions contrast in their silliness with the reading; and the unequal burden it imposes on a few helpless establishments becomes every day more apparent. The weaknesses of the measure might have been ascertained while it was pending. Not a few of its absurd provisions were then pointed out. But the object of its promoters was less to regulate shipping than to accomplish a political end. Their calculations took into account votes to be gained. Little thought did they expend on other effects of the bill they advocated. It was labeled humane and demanded by "labor," and it was put through regardless of anything except its fruit at the polls.

To cure its defects a radical operation is needed. Repeal alone would lift its burdensome hand from the shipping trade. Will congress and the president unite to rid the country of this futile, dishonest and embarrassing statute?—New York Sun.

Revision Imperative.

Another tariff revision approaches. It would have been advisable if no war had come. The war has made it imperative. We need a great deal more revenue than the Underwood law provides; and the rates and schedules of that measure should be as soon as possible be changed to meet conditions that not only did not exist, but were undreamed of, at the time the law was enacted. Let us have a new law, fashioned on the new conditions, and fully meeting all requirements.

Busy Grinding His Knife.

The one-term declaration in the last Democratic platform is not to be forgotten if Mr. Bryan or his friends can help it. It was Bryan who drew that plank.—Los Angeles Times.

Recalls Sour Grapes.

Mr. Bryan declares the war has been mapped out for his remaining years "does not include the occupying of any political position." Many others are of the same opinion.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Safe Bet.

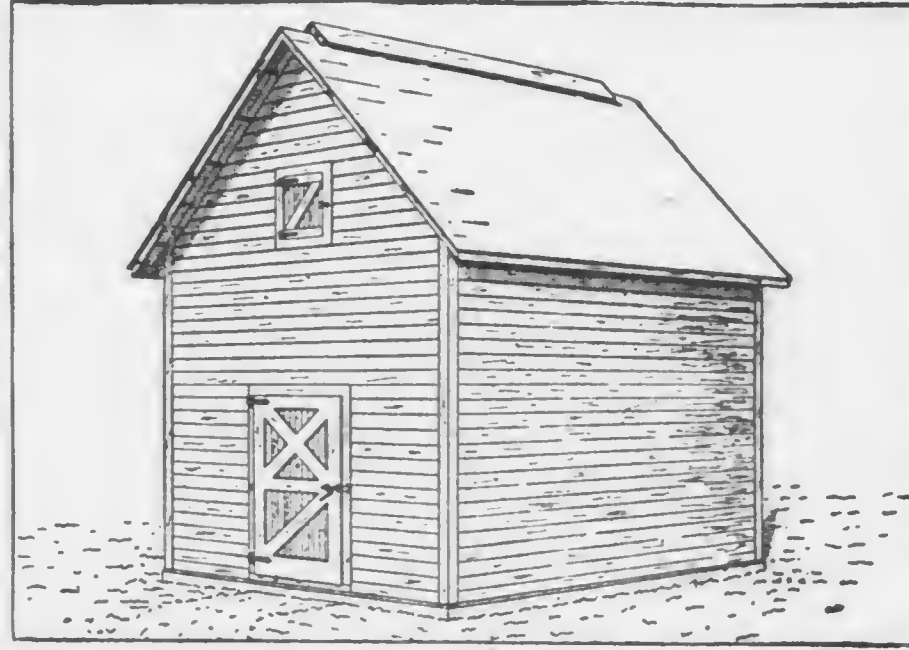

Champ Clark prevented a lynching at Bowling Green the other night. Needless to say it was not William J. Bryan that the mob intended to hang.—New York World.

The Census Department was taking long chances on becoming involved in an argument when it estimated the population of St. Louis and Boston as 115,988 and 745,139 respectively.

Greece says it gladly would help the allies if it were bigger. Of course, the Teuton and the Turk will be a considerable of Greece just because it is a little nation.

And besides all that, the Germans have killed off an unconsciously large number of British troops.

ECONOMY IN ICE-HOUSE CONSTRUCTION

Wooden Ice House, Insulated With Sawdust or Mill Shavings. (Perspective View.)

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Generally speaking, the construction of an ice house is a question of economy for the dairyman. The cost of harvesting and storing, interest on the money invested, repairs, and depreciation on the building should offset the saving in the melting of ice; beyond this it is not good policy to go.

The location of the house should be such as to shield it as much as possible from the wind and from the direct rays of the sun. The function of an ice house is to prevent the outside heat from passing into the interior and melting the ice; therefore the problem is to minimize the passage of heat by interposing in the walls a material or a construction which will resist its transfer from the outer to the inner side of the building. There is no material known that will entirely prevent the passage of heat; however, there are materials which offer a high resistance and are termed nonconductors or insulators. The best insulators appear to be those that contain the greatest amount of entrapped air confined in the smallest possible spaces.

Formerly it was the practice in constructing buildings for the storage of ice or for cold-storage purposes to provide a series of air spaces some of which were as much as 12 inches wide, the supposition being that they were dead-air spaces. As a matter of fact, however, as the air in contact with the cooler surface will filter in contact with the warmer surface, it produced a circulation tending to equalize the temperature of the sides of the air space. Therefore an air space 1 inch wide is practically as good as one 12 inches wide. Air circulation in a valuable house is through the insulated ceiling and the roof of an ice house in order to break up the heat radiation through the roof.

No entrance or exit of air should be allowed to take place in a room where ice is stored, especially at or near the roof line, as the cold currents of air at the bottom will filter through. If the walls and foundations are kept absolutely tight at the bottom, an opening at the top has but little effect, as the warm air entering will remain at the top of the room. When it is necessary to remove ice from the house, the door should be kept open as short a time as possible, and where a covering material is used the ice should be carefully covered. In a properly insulated house a great advantage is that no covering is required. The ice is packed on the floor of the room, depending on the insulated walls and floor for protection from the outside heat. But in the cheaper houses it is better to cover the ice with some material, such as sawdust or mill shavings. A layer of the insulating material should be placed directly on the floor and the ice stacked thereon; there should also be a layer packed between the ice and the walls. Ice should never be placed directly on the ground, soil being a fairly good conductor of heat, especially when wet, as the floors of all ice houses are sure to be. The larger percentage of waste, however, is due to the entrance of heat through the insulation of the walls and floor; consequently they should be carefully constructed.

Insulation.

As sawdust and shavings are shown in some of the typical designs, it is not to be understood that they are the best insulators for this class of buildings. They are used because they are cheap and can be had in any part of the country, and if kept dry are good insulators. It is a very difficult problem, however, to keep them dry, and when they are to be used great care should be exercised in the construction of the walls in order to keep out the moisture.

Planing-mill shavings are better than sawdust for insulating purposes; they are elastic, do not settle readily, and do not absorb moisture so readily as sawdust; and, most important, are free from dirt, bark, or chips. When used as filling for walls or ceiling, they should be well packed into place to prevent settling.

Sawdust has in the past been used to a great extent in rural districts for insulating walls of small cold-storage buildings, due to the fact that it is available in most country districts and usually without cost. It is not a very satisfactory material for insulating purposes, however, as it is always more or less damp. Furthermore the dampness not only destroys its insulating value, but it favors the growth of mold and rot, and in the sawdust itself and then in the walls of the building.

The KITCHEN CABINET

I need not enlarge upon the advantage of money; everything we see and everything we hear puts us in remembrance of it. As the world is, it is not of money to be rich, that it may be in our power to do good.—Lady Monagu.

HOW TO PREPARE RABBITS.

A rabbit should not be hung longer than two or three days unless kept in cold storage. The age of a rabbit may be told by the paw. If there is a little nut in the paw which may be easily broken with the thumb and finger, the rabbit is young; if it has disappeared and the paw rests pressure, the rabbit is too old for anything but a stew.

In dressing a rabbit there is a little secret that is so objectionable to some. It is to remove the thin membrane which extends from the flanks over the intestines. The strong flavor will be removed and the flesh delicately sweet. The gall bladder must, of course, be carefully removed.

Roast Rabbit.—Put the rabbit, carefully dressed but whole, into a kettle. Add a quart of water and a pinch of soda and stew until tender. Take from the broth. Mix with the broth to moisten, well-seasoned bread crumbs, stuff the rabbit, lay in a pan, spread with butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper and bake a rich brown. Serve with a brown gravy made from the broth, adding a little browned onion for seasoning.

Barbecued Rabbit.—Open plump young rabbits all the way down the under side, wash and lay flat in a pan of salt and water with a weight to hold them under the water. Wipe dry and slash across the backbone in eight or ten places, brush with olive oil and broil before a clear fire, turning often. Lay on a hot dish, season with salt, pepper and plenty of butter, then set in the oven for the butter to soak in. Heat in a small pan two tablespoons of vinegar, with one of meat mustard; brush this over the rabbit while broiling hot. Garnish with parsley or watercress and serve with a currant jelly sauce. Cook a tablespoonful of onion in a tablespoonful of butter, add one tablespoonful of flour and a half cupful of rabbit stock, season with salt, a teaspoonful of vinegar, a bay leaf, a clove and a tablespoonful of currant jelly. Simmer five minutes and serve.

Lesson in Potatoes.

A Pleasant township farmer dug sixty bushels of Early Ohio potatoes from two bushels planted. He paid $1.50 per bushel for the seed, and last week was offered 40 cents per bushel for his crop. Next spring seed potatoes will probably by $1.50 per bushel again, and the town man will have to pay 40 cents a peck all the time for what he uses. Something is wrong with our system of marketing as between producer and consumer.—Georgetown (O.) News-Democrat.

Look well to their record. What they have done many times in years gone by is the best guarantee of future results. Anyone with a bad back; any reader suffering from urinary troubles, from kidney ills, should find comforting words in the following statement.

Mrs. John Burns, Maysville, says: "I was subject to severe spells of backache and kidney trouble. They came on every three or six months and at times I was confined to bed and almost helpless. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me quick benefit. Since then when I have noticed slight return attacks of backache, I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and they have never failed to quickly check the trouble."

OVER SEVEN YEARS LATER Mrs. Burns said: "The statement I gave before praising Doan's Kidney Pills still holds good. I know that this medicine acts as represented." Price 50c, at all dealers. SISTER: Read My Free Offer!

I am a woman. I know a woman's trials. I know her need of sympathy. If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. I cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 15 cents a week. If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging-down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the breast, or a general feeling that life is not worth living.

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember, it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial. If health is worth striving for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers post-paid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return it. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address, MRS. M. J. that fast color dyes are getting very scarce, but we will continue to GUARANTEE everything we sell for this Fall and Winter to be of fast color, and most everything for next Spring and Summer. We are simply selling the bulk of the clothing trade here this fall, even if they do have Wednesday's sale in Cincinnati.

Geo. H. Frank & Co.
Maysville's Foremost Clothiers.

United States Steamboat Inspectors Peyton and Dameron, of the Cincinnati district, inspected the Greenland.

The wickers have been raised at all the government dams in the upper Ohio and the river is falling slowly at all points above.

The coasting steamer Uncle Dick arrived at Louisville with a record cargo of hay, making the biggest consignment of hay in many years. It is estimated at 50,000 bales.

On her return trip to Cincinnati the steamer Kentucky will be taken out on the Queen City Marine Ways for repairs, and the steamer Lucinda will run in the Madison trade in her place.

The Memphis packet steamer Ohio, which is en route to Memphis, had to charter a flat barge at Owensboro, Ky., to handle all the freight that was offered her for lower Ohio and Mississippi routes. She is twenty-four hours behind her scheduled time.

In the Maysville district the Ohio river will not change much. The gauge at Maysville registered today 6.9 feet and falling.

The stages at other points were: Franklin 1.5, fell 0.2; Greensboro 7.3, fell 0.1; Pittsburg 6.2, rose 0.1; Dam No. 9 5.1, fell 1.2; Wheeling 8.6, fell 0.4; Parkersburg 5.1, rose 0.4; Radford 0.4; Hinton 2.3; Kanawha Falls 1.5, rose 0.1; Charleston 7.0; Pleasant 6.5, rose 0.3; Huntington 3.8, fell 0.3; Catlettsburg 4.0, fell 0.5; Portsmouth 6.0, fell 1.2.

The steamers Lena May, the Royal and Tarascon are in keen rivalry for the packet business between Louisville and lower river points. The Lena May and Tarascon have been in this trade for some time. Captain Eugene Greer, owner of the Royal, recently withdrew his boat from the up-river trade to enter it below. The up-river business is encouraging. The Royal was withdrawn about the time the tobacco growers began to unload their crop. The boats will make three trips each week, stopping at all points. Shippers will be benefited by the competition. It will enable them to ship more often each week and at a lower rate. There are several coasting steamers engaged in the lower river business. These boats ply between Louisville and Stephensport and their cargoes consist mainly of produce and miscellaneous freight.

THIRTY-YEAR DEMOCRAT TALKS

Editor of the Ledger:

As a Democrat that never scratched the ticket in thirty years, I feel that the speakers at the Democratic barbecue failed to clear up State issues as I had hoped they would be able to do. That extravagance and wasteful expenditures of the public moneys has been the rule in Kentucky is beyond question, and for one I feel that the man who like myself, has prided himself on the fact that he never scratched a ticket, has blindly stood in the way of better government for Kentucky.

With the Democrats in full control at Frankfort they have failed to pass that class of legislation so much in need that would have materially lessened the control of crooked corporations and machine politicians. They failed to pass either a corrupt practices act that would stop the criminal practice of vote-buying, or an anti-pass bill that would prevent the control of our public officials by transportation companies.

An investigation in the national House two years ago showed that the L. & N. railroad had given an average of two passes for every Senator and legislator in the Kentucky Assembly of that year, to say nothing of judges, sheriffs and other officers in the State who were at least partly bought by such favors from corporations. The speakers indulged in extravagant praise of the head of the ticket, Mr. Stanley, to whom we of Mason county need no introduction, as we have heard his silly vapors these many years.

The rest of the time the Federal office holding official speakers called on us to uphold the hands of Woodrow Wilson, the grandest man (for them) since the Man of Galilee, which is considerable more of the same kind of rot. As every man who votes the straight ticket for years has hopes that he or some of his will be some time favored with some of the political pie, a little history of the speakers and the time they have been feeding at the trough would be illuminating to show how futile are such hopes, and to throw a little light on why the office holders want us to stick to the grand old party.

The Bulletin says "the heavy artillery was turned loose with telling effect." The first heavy artillery was our ever smiling Judge Newell, who has been shoving his feet under the political mahogany table "since the memory of man runneth, not to the contrary." Then the fledgling, Stanley Reed, who was put on the ticket in county politics to give it an air of refinement, has made the job pay, and as he is a young man, we can expect to hear of him the balance of our natural lives.

And then, our "ever-ready" when there is any pie-cutting—"Jimmy" Kehoe, of "family tree" fame, who has probably distributed more pie to his family, himself and friends, regardless of their political affiliations, than any other one man in Kentucky. His talk was a regular get-together for us, a talk of the 1879 variety.

And then Newman, who sold his politics at a good price and will be heard from again, in a good paying office for his service. And then Thomas Demosthenes Slattery, of single X fame, who has grown fat and sleek and eloquent under the influence of good Democratic burzio and political pie, who has held political office since he became a voter. And then James, who has been in office since he was a page at 18 up until this good year of 1915, about forty-five years of political office-holding. And Stanley, that "grand man" Stanley who rode a mule four miles that the people of the mountains would not be denied this great Gospel of Democracy, and help keep Owens in a nice fat office for a few more years. No wonder these are called heavy artillery, and they have been hiding the good old Democratic mule so long that they should have hibernated where the saddle fits.

So these grand "politicians" have commercialized their politics and as long as this machine stays together and we keep voting the straight Democratic ticket they will be our political idols and bosses.

But I for one, WILL DESERT THE CRAFT AND VOTE FOR A NEW DEAL AND NEW FACES AND POLICIES—NOW AND THE ENTIRE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR THIRTY YEARS A "STRAIGHT" DEMOCRAT.

OLIVER GREENLEE

Seeks a Re-election To Council From the First Ward.

Oliver Greenlee, who has represented the First Ward in Council for several terms, is again before the voters of that Ward asking that they re-elect him to that important position. Mr. Greenlee has spent the greater part of his life in that Ward, and is too well known to need any fulsome praise as an introduction, and, if re-elected, promises to be as faithful in the future as he has been in the past, towards getting those things most useful for the general improvement of his portion of our city. BOARD OF EDUCATION

Candidate For This Important Position From the Different Wards.

At the election on next Tuesday one-half of the City Board of Education will be elected. All of the present members are candidates for re-election. Only one candidate has opposition. Dr. W. S. Yazell, from the Second Ward. He is opposed by Mr. N. S. Calhoun. Dr. Yazell has served on the Board for a number of years, while Mr. Calhoun is a very energetic young man and would make a valuable member if elected.

Here are the candidates: First Ward—S. P. Browning. Second Ward—W. S. Yazell and N. S. Calhoun.

Third Ward—Dr. Edwin Matthews. Fourth Ward—J. Harbour Russell. Fifth Ward—John T. Smith. Sixth Ward—J. H. Richardson.

The present Board of Education needs no complimentary notices from The Ledger. They have done their duty by the citizens of Maysville and have done it well. What more need be said.

AT THE SHOWS.

"The House of a Thousand Candles" was the feature exhibited by Manager Mills at the Gem Friday afternoon and evening. The feature is a release of the Sell Company, and is one of the best ever turned out by this company. Harry Mastayer and Grace Larnond were the leading characters of the film. Their acting brought forth much admiration from the large audience that thronged the playhouse. The program started in the evening at 6:40 so as to permit its patrons to attend the High School Lyceum Course.

Manager Thomas Russell gave his patrons a real show Friday evening, when the Paramount five-reel drama, "Kilmeny," featuring Miss Lenora Ulrich, was shown. The film dealt with nature, and some of the most beautiful scenery ever shown in this city in a picture was in the film. The show started early enough for those who wished to go to the Lyceum number at the High School to see the show.
